Protecting People with Disabilities & Their Right to Make Choices

The Jenny Hatch Justice Project of Quality Trust for Individuals with Disabilities (JHJP) provides free legal services to low-income District residents with disabilities who have questions about their rights to make decisions or who are interested in less-restrictive alternatives to guardianship. We are generously funded by the D.C. Bar Foundation to help serve the community.

Please join us for our 2-PART PRO BONO WEBINAR SERIES on Adult Guardianship, Less Restrictive Alternatives, & Advancing Planning! In this series, co-sponsored by the Council for Court Excellence (CCE), we will train DC pro bono attorneys to help people with disabilities design and use practical tools – such as Supported Decision-Making Agreements, Powers of Attorney, Advance Directives, and other decision-making arrangements – to avoid unnecessary or overbroad guardianship.

In this series, you will hear from Morgan Whitlatch (Quality Trust Legal Director), Holly Ceasar (JHJP Staff Attorney), and Casey Anderson (CCE Communications Manager).

Please register by clicking on the title of the webinar below. If you have any questions, please contact the JHJP Staff Attorney, Holly Ceasar, at hceasar@dcqualitytrust.org or 202-448-1448.
